“ Dad taught me how to drive on Petty Road in Pine Bluff. He would pull over and let me sit in his lap and steer. I was so young my feet couldn't reach the pedals. He taught me how to drive a boat on Lake Hamilton. He implored us to do it ourselves. To be brave. To leave places better/cleaner than when we found them. To be responsible. Lessons that have helped me far beyond their original intent. Oh... and to use big words whenever I can. That one was by example.
